November is Adoption Awareness Month

Join us in celebrating our adoptive families and all those who support them! Interested in adoption? Learn more about the Foster Care & Adoption program.

The Department of Family Services' Foster Care & Adoption Program offers temporary homes and services for nearly 225 children. When a child can't return home safely, we look for relatives to care for that child. But if relatives are unable to fill in the gap, we seek a permanent home through adoption. Isabella's story is one of those happy adoption stories, watch now.

Meet some of the wonderful children awaiting adoption through the Department of Family Services. Most of these children are older children and youth who can benefit from the support of loving families to help them succeed in life. Please share their profiles and videos to help them find permanent families.

We are celebrating Fairfax County's adoptive families and all those who support them! There will be a formal adoption ceremony and inspiring words by Miss USA DC 2018, Cordelia Crenshaw, followed by fun, music, food, and games. Animal Shelter Corner

Meet Katt!

This Katt is. . . a dog. A small (15 pound), senior (~12 years) cute little doggo. She was found as a stray, and the Fairfax County Animal Shelter has no idea where she may have come from or how long she was out! She was in good shape aside from long nails. Their vet also soon discovered that Katt has some trouble with her vision. She is blind in her left eye, and has partial vision in her right eye. But, she can still get around fine! She seems to be a little anxious in the busy shelter environment, and what she really wants more than anything is to get out of there, and into someone's home! Her adopter will need to be patient with her, and also make sure that little Katt puts her wandering days behind her. No more escaping, Katt! Just settle in and enjoy life with a family! For more information about Katt, contact the Animal Shelter at 703-830-1100 or send an email to AnimalShelter@fairfaxcounty.gov.
